malayalam serial actress prameela sex videos olleh dont say again you didnt see me downloOver at Legal Insurrection, Blakely Powell has a great summary of a recent decision out of Alabama that dealt with juror misconduct. *** While in the past I've characterized the pernicious effects of lying on the voir dire process in terms of a systemic hindrance to the administration of justice, it's important to realize that lying about the juror's experience can be just as detrimental to the juror as lying about other aspects of the voir dire. This is not to suggest that the answers of some of these prospective jurors should be struck. But it certainly is to highlight that this particular aspect of voir dire can be just as problematic as questioning the minds of the prospective jurors. In any event, this case should be of interest to anyone working in the area of juror misconduct. Have a tip we should know? [email protected], and generally keep my interest level high. Love art and enjoy creating various forms. I believe there is beauty in everything. I enjoy learning new things and trying new adventures. My skill level varies and I don't go into a project with all the answers. To me, that's a path, not a destination. My personal journey is what interests me, and that I go a long way to accomplish. I love adventure and I like to take on challenges. Does anyone else feel the need to be busy while doing something else?? It may sound counter intuitive but I think that helps with procrastination. A lot of art "busy" people go into editing mode and while I can see that being someones first choice to do, I feel like it dilutes their own artistic ability. To me, leaving it alone a little longer and forcing my mind into more artistic mode does wonders for the process. I also love to work on small pieces for painting and then finishing on the computer. That way you can learn the design and composition really well in the "watercolor" stage. That works great for me... Life is about learning to stay in the moment. This was a difficult one for me and I also find myself separating too much. For the most part I'm an easily distracted guy and nothing pulls me out of my creative zone. I've been thinking a lot lately about what I
